Man Eating Leopard of Bhim Bandh: Great White Hunter James Corbett

Please Note: This is a work of fiction written by James Corbett. It is not written by Jim Corbett who was a great hunter of his time.

This book is the second in the 'Great White Hunter,' series. Henry Phibbs is an American who settles down in India because of his love for Indian wild life. He retires from the Indian Forest department and settles down in his ancestral farm. But the forest department has different plans for him. They call him back from retirement. A leopard has gone rogue and has become a man eater. It is the age of forest and wild life preservation. Big game hunters are extinct except for a few old men who are still alive. Henry is the best among'st them. But old age has taken a toll on his exuberance for big game hunting. He wants to relax. Will he accept the offer to hunt????? The leopard goes berserk killing a human every third day. It must be hunted before more humans are killed. Henry realizes he will have to go out there and stalk, hunt, and kill the leopard.
