This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text. Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1851 edition. Excerpt: ... Paul and his company having started from Neapolis, crossed the marshes and ascended the highlands, and at length reached the summit of the last mount, and saw stretching before them to the west the beautiful valley of Seres, and Philippi seated magnificently on the slope of the hill on the opposite side of the plain. They paused, perhaps, to dwell for a moment on the loveliness of the scene, and to prefer a prayer for the success of their labours in so glorious a vineyard. They followed the road and arrived at Philippi. Their first care was probably to secure a lodging; but we may be sure that Paul would lose no time in addressing himself to the duties of his ministry. No event occurred during the first few days. It would seem that there was no synagogue at Philippi, but that in lieu of it there was a Proseucha, an oratory or place of prayer. These Proseucha; were commonly without the city, in the open air and uncovered, being spacious areas, after the manner of fora, or market' places. Tims the one at Philippi was without the walls, by the side of the river Zygactes. As the Jewish ceremonial law was accompanied with frequent ablutions, the public worship was generally conducted for convenience in the immediate vicinity of water, t As the Apostle's E£ai Tijš iroAtiiS tv atpi Kai aiDpiu Totw Totoi irartis tpopuV SiKрпи.
